

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

TRIBUTE TO SYLVIA BARNARD—
CALIFORNIA'S 24TH CONGRES-SIONAL WOMAN OF THE YEAR

HON. SALUD O. CARBAJAL

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 22, 2017

Mr. CARBAJAL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of Women's History Month. Every year, we dedicate the month of March to give special recognition to the accomplishments and sacrifices made by America's women. I consider it an honor to highlight the extraordinary women who are making a difference in my district. I would like to recognize one outstanding woman: Sylvia Barnard, of Santa Maria, California.

After facing incredible challenges in her early life, Sylvia has risen to not only empower herself, but other women facing similar difficulties in our community. Once a single mother on welfare at nineteen years old, Sylvia decided that pursuing a higher education was the best way to ensure a better life for her and her daughter and went on to get her Bachelor's Degree from the University of California, Santa Barbara (UCSB). Wanting to help other single mothers, Sylvia used her education from UCSB to write a book titled "One Mother to Another." Her book focuses on the importance of determination, resilience, and the positive impact of higher education.

Currently, she passionately dedicates herself to leading The Good Samaritan Shelter, which gives support to the homeless and other vulnerable populations, serving almost 2,000 people per year. The agency also helps veterans, parolees, mothers fighting addictions, and those in rehabilitation. As the Executive Director, Sylvia has grown the small agency from a shelter that had only eight rooms to one that now has over fifteen rooms for people to escape living on the street.

Sylvia began working at the Great Samaritan Shelter over sixteen years ago as a grant writer, and about ten years ago took the helm of the organization. Under the helm of her leadership, the shelter is now the largest homeless shelter provider for the Santa Maria area.

She has gone above and beyond the call of duty and is a force of light and positivity for vulnerable communities in Santa Maria. I ask all Members to join me today in honoring an exceptional woman of California's 24th Congressional District, Sylvia Barnard, for her incredible service to her community.

HONORING MS. LEONA EGELAND
RICE

HON. MIKE THOMPSON

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 22, 2017

Mr. THOMPSON of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Leona Egeland Rice upon her retirement after over four decades of public service and leadership in California. Ms. Rice has served our state as a teacher, an elected official, and an advocate for quality healthcare.

A native of Tucson, Arizona, Ms. Egeland Rice came to California to earn a master's degree in education at San Jose State University. She stayed in California as she began her family and her career as a science teacher. While political issues always interested her, Ms. Egeland Rice first became personally involved in the public sphere through her instrumental role in the campaign to build a new sewage treatment plan to prevent ocean pollution.

After the success of her first community organizing experience, Ms. Egeland Rice found a new passion for local involvement. She worked with the Santa Clara County Supervisor's office to ensure women were appointed to boards and commissions in the county. In 1974, she launched her first campaign for the California State Assembly and won with over 57 percent of the vote. When she took office, only one other woman served in the State Assembly. Ms. Egeland Rice later led the charge to change members' title from "Assemblyman" to "Assembly Member" to reflect the body's growing diversity.

During her three terms in the Assembly, Ms. Egeland Rice successfully championed important legislation to improve children's welfare, public health, and access to healthcare across the state. After leaving the State Assembly, Ms. Rice became Chief Deputy Director for the California Department of Human Services, where she established an office in Los Angeles and worked on maternal and children's health.

Ms. Egeland Rice returned to Northern California to spend time with her family in 1998. There she began working with The Doctors Company, a physician-owned insurance company. She helped lead the company's growth over the past two decades, and served as Senior Vice President of Government Relations as well as Executive Director of the company's charitable foundation. As The Doctors Company expanded beyond California, Ms. Egeland Rice developed partnerships with other state governments. Furthermore, she championed the Corporate Charitable program and implemented an Employee Charitable Gift Matching program.

Mr. Speaker, Leona Egeland Rice has served as a dedicated and influential teacher, public servant, and business leader in our community for over four decades. Therefore, it is fitting and proper that we honor Ms. Egeland Rice here today and extend our best wishes for an enjoyable retirement.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. LOUISE MCINTOSH SLAUGHTER

OF NEW YORK

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I was unavoidably detained and missed Roll Call vote numbers 176, 177, 178, 179, 180 and 181. Had I been present, I would have voted Aye on votes 178 and 181. I would have voted Nay on votes 176, 177, 179 and 180.

IN RECOGNITION OF ANN ARBOR'S BOY SCOUT TROOP 4 IN THE CENTENNIAL YEAR OF ITS FOUNDING

HON. DEBBIE DINGELL

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 22, 2017

Mrs. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Ann Arbor's Boy Scout Troop 4 in the year of its centennial. Boy Scout Troop 4 has been a pillar of the Ann Arbor community and has contributed to the well-being of south-east Michigan through its century of activism and service.

Founded in March 1917 with an original membership of ten boys and three adult leaders, Boy Scout Troop 4 has provided Ann Arbor youth with skills and experience while serving the community at large. The group expanded rapidly during the 1920s and 30s and established itself as a key part of Ann Arbor civic life. The troop has continued to build on its early success and has collectively served over 1,800 boys from Ann Arbor and the surrounding areas since its founding, including over 150 that have achieved the rank of Eagle Scout. Today, Troop 4 continues to remain active in Ann Arbor through projects like Scouting for Food, which provides nutrition to needy individuals, as well as staffing local events like Kerrytown Bookfest and the Saline Celtic Festival. Additionally, the troop hosts camping events and trips for scouts around the state. These initiatives equip the Boy Scouts with experience and ability to become leaders in the community.

Troop 4's long and distinguished history of service has helped create generations of civic-minded individuals who have the skills and experience that will serve them throughout their lives. Through projects like restoring the St. Helena Light Station and visits to cultural institutions like the Cranbrook Institute and the Jackson Space Institute, the leadership and members of Troop 4 have continued to build on its historic legacy and the accomplishments of its alumni. It is my hope that Troop 4 continues to serve as a model for activism and help inspire leadership and a spirit of service in the community in the coming years.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring Ann Arbor's Boy Scout Troop 4 on
